Weekly
Roundup

WR 30-88

July 27, 1988

The Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture today reported the following developments in world agriculture and trade.

GRAIN AND FEED

Rainy Weather Slows SOVIET Grain Harvest. In the USSR as of July 18, small grains and pulses were cut on 14.9 million hectares, of which 9.8 million were threshed, according to a report from the U.S. agricultural counselor in Moscow. Rains accompanied by strong winds reportedly have caused lodging, impeding the early grain harvest in European USSR this year. Despite the unfavorable conditions, some areas are reporting excellent winter grain yields.

While the 1988 harvest progress figures are greater than those of 1987 when the season was late and 8.9 million hectares were cut and 5.4 million threshed as of July 20, they are smaller than the averages for 1983-86. During those four years, an average of 23.5 million hectares was cut and 18.6 million threshed by about the end of the third week of July.

Preliminary 1988 SOVIET Grain Area Figure Revised Downward. The 1988 mid-year plan fulfillment report, published in Pravda on July 24, stated the preliminary total grain area figure for this year's crop is 116.1 million hectares. As reported in last week's Weekly Roundup of World Production and Trade (WR 29-88, July 20, 1988), a preliminary grain area figure of 116.5 million hectares had been published in the Soviet agricultural newspaper, Sel'skaya Zhizn, July 14. More recent reports in the Soviet press state that heavy rains in parts of European USSR have caused some fields of winter grains to be lost. This may be the reason for the 400,000-hectare reduction in the preliminary grain area figure.

By way of comparison with this year's preliminary figure of 116.1 million hectares, the corresponding figure for the 1987 crop was 117.6 million hectares; the final figure for the harvest was 115.2 million. USDA currently estimates 116.0 million hectares to be harvested for the 1988 grain crop.

CHILE Expected To Increase Wheat Imports. Chile's 1988/89 (Dec/Nov) wheat imports may increase beyond the current 260,000-ton projection if prospects for the ongoing 1988 planting season continue unfavorable. Chile is in the midst of the worst winter drought in 64 years. A 15-percent shortfall in the 1987 crop, down from a record 1986/87 harvest, had already raised the 1988/89 import forecast from the previous year's level of 50,000 tons.

After the record harvest in 1986 and a subsequent buildup in stocks, the 1987/88 price band (annual range of prices for imported wheat announced by the Chilean government) was reduced, resulting in lower domestic wheat prices and, consequently, diminished wheat plantings for 1988. Although Chile's price band had in past years been an effective tool to stimulate increased wheat production, the combination of reduced plantings and drought conditions will create additional opportunities for U.S. wheat exports. The United States traditionally supplies virtually all of Chile's wheat import needs.

EAST GERMANY Buys Additional Barley. East Germany has reportedly purchased 700,000 to 1 million tons of European Community (EC) barley for August-February delivery. Barley imports of that magnitude would be twice the levels of recent years, and the purchase from the EC would represent a departure from past East Germany's buying patterns. Historically, Canada has been the country's largest supplier of barley.

CANADA Increases Producer Payments. The Canadian Wheat Board has announced major increases in 1988 producer payments for spring wheats (Canada western red spring and durum), barley and oats, effective August 1. The original levels, announced in May, were equal to the adjusted 1987 payment announced in April. This is the second year in a row that the initial payment has been adjusted to encourage deliveries of grain from on-farm storage to the board to meet export commitments.

OILSEEDS AND PRODUCTS

ARGENTINA Increasing Confectionery Nut Exports. Argentina's peanut growers are switching from production and export of Spanish and Valencia peanuts to larger kernel Florunner peanuts. Moreover, nearly all the Florunner production (an estimated 230,000 tons in 1988) is exported; Valencia peanuts are popular in the domestic market. Peanut production practices and first handling operations are still primitive, dampening growth in the peanut export sector, but technical improvements are expanding rapidly.

SPAIN'S Exports of Sunflowerseed Oil Forecast Up Sharply. Spain's exports of sunflowerseed oil are forecast up 120,000 tons from last year to 180,000 tons. With domestic use forecast down about 50,000 tons to 290,000 tons for 1988/89, sunflowerseed exports are projected at 70,000 tons, compared to 1,000 tons prior to EC enlargement.

Spain's recent accession to the EC increased EC sunflowerseed output by 1 million tons, so that Spain comprises about one fourth of total EC sunflowerseed output. Now that Spain's producers receive double the world price for their sunflowerseeds, output and exports may continue to rise sharply.

COTTON AND FIBERS

U.S. May Cotton Exports Down. U.S. cotton exports declined seasonally in May to 517,000 bales, 9 percent below the April level. Cumulative August-May exports totaled 5.7 million bales. Total 1987/88 season exports are estimated at 6.6 million bales. Japan, the EC, South Korea and Taiwan are the leading markets for U.S. cotton.
